Code: date/type/number

Date: 12 July = A; 13 July = B; 14 July = C

Type: P = Plenary, S = Semiplenary; L= Parallel lecture; W = workshop/discussion group

Number: progressive

Each lecture and workshop is given a code. Please indicate on your application form at least two options from lectures and workshops listed in the programme for each day, to help us allow as many people to attend the events of their choice.

Plenary sessions will last one hour and a half. Simultaneous translations will be provided in the five official IFOTES languages: English, French, German, Italian, Spanish.

Parallel lectures will last one hour, with two or three speakers. They will be translated into two other languages. Some of the speakers will lead a one-hour workshop or discussion group after their lecture.

Discussions groups will last one hour. A moderator for each language will lead a debate on the topic of the day.

Workshops will last one or two hours. They will be interactive with about 15-20 participants so the leader is expected to lead the whole session. Please note that no simultaneous translations will be provided for workshops.

Poster presentations: IFOTES members Federations and partners have the opportunity to present posters which show their best practices or projects in operating crisis helplines. Posters will be displayed in one of the halls during the entire congress, and will be discussed at the poster presentation.

Further details of your attendance at lectures and participation in workshops will be given to you directly before the congress starts, or at the registration desk.

During the congress our volunteer staff will be pleased to help you in finding your workshop location, as well as make your stay in Prato as comfortable as possible.
